

What Program Areas Do Public Health Social Workers Serve?

- Administration
- Adult Health Programs
- Care Coordination for Children
- Child Health Clinics
- Children's Special Health Services
- Community Alternatives Programs
- Disaster Preparedness
- Family Planning Clinics
- Health and Behavior Intervention
- Health Promotion
- Healthy Beginnings Programs
- Healthy Start/Baby Love Plus Program
- High Risk Maternity Clinics
- HIV/AIDS Programs
- Home Health Programs
- Hospice
- Infant Toddler Program
- Maternity Clinics
- Pregnancy Care Management
- Psychological Services for Children and Adolescents
- Regional and State Program Consultants
- School Health/School-Based/Linked Clinics
- Sexually Transmitted Infections Programs
- Sickle Cell Program
- Sudden Infant Death Syndrome Programs
- Teen Pregnancy Prevention and Parenting Programs
- Tuberculosis Programs

Public Health Social Workers Are Supported by Many Professional Organizations

Continuing Education and Training Advisory Committee for Public Health Social Work (CETAC) oce.sph.unc.edu/cetac

CETAC's mission is to advance the practice and profession of Public Health Social Work and assure high quality education and training for Public Health Social Workers. Members are appointed by the North Carolina State Health Director and the Dean of the UNC Gillings School of Global Public Health at Chapel Hill, NC.

North Carolina Public Health Association Social Work Section www.ncpha.com

This organization represents the social work voice on the NCPHA governing council and provides continuing education and networking opportunities. Public Health Social Workers are encouraged to become members of the Association and the section.

National Association of Social Workers North Carolina Chapter www.naswnc.org

NASW is a professional membership organization that promotes, develops, and protects the practice of social work and social workers. NASW also seeks to enhance the effective functioning and well-being of individuals, families, and communities through its work and advocacy. Public Health Social Workers are encouraged to become members of the association.

North Carolina Division of Public Health, Department of Health and Human Services www.publichealth.nc.gov

This agency provides administrative oversight and funding for a variety of public health programs employing public health social workers statewide.

North Carolina Social Work Certification and Licensure Board www.ncswboard.org

This entity sets standards for qualifications, training, and experience for certified/licensed social workers and promotes high standards of professional performance in the practice of social work.

Association of State and Territorial Public Health Social Workers <http://www.asthphsw.org>

This is a national organization comprised of public health social workers from a number of states. It is one of the affiliates of the Association of State and Territorial Public Health Officials. The goal of this organization is to promote public health social work on a national level through networking and shared learning.

State of North Carolina * Pat McCrory, Governor
Department of Health and Human Services
Aldona Z. Wos, M.D., Secretary
www.ncdhhs.gov

N.C. DHHS is an equal opportunity employer and provider.
5,000 copies of this public document were printed at a cost of $804.40 or $0.16 per copy. Reprinted 02/14.

Helping People Help Themselves

Public Health Social Work in North Carolina

Questions & Answers

What is Public Health Social Work?

Public Health Social Workers make a difference in the lives of the people they touch.

They focus on prevention and identify children, adults, families, and communities with needs; and provide intervention services to help these clients discover ways of meeting their needs and preventing future problems.

Three levels of prevention are central to public health social work practice:

- Preventing disease and adverse conditions (physical, emotional, behavioral) from ever occurring by promoting healthy behaviors, prevention activities and protective measures.
- Promoting early diagnosis and treatment to minimize the effects of illness.
- Working to rehabilitate or restore clients to improved functioning after the onset of a disease or condition.

Who are Public Health Social Workers?

Public Health Social Workers include professionals with bachelor's or master's degrees from a Council on Social Work Education accredited school of social work (or professionals with other degrees which meet the state personnel classification system qualifications for social work positions), who work in public health settings. Many public health social workers are nationally credentialed or state certified/licensed. Professionally educated social workers adhere to a standard code of ethics for social work practice.

What Do Public Health Social Workers Do?

Public Health Social Workers are critical members of the public health team.

They bring a unique set of knowledge and skills in the areas of human behavior, social and environmental systems.

They are experts in helping individuals and families make behavioral and situational life changes in order to improve their overall health and well-being.

They also work with communities and assist them in identifying and addressing broad public health issues.

Public Health Social Workers conduct the following direct client service activities:

- Coordinate clients' involvement with community agencies.
- Counsel individuals and families who are dealing with emotional, physical and social issues.
- Empower clients to assess their own needs and to advocate for themselves.
- Enhance clients' coping abilities.
- Link clients to resources for optimal outcomes.
- Provide understanding of client psychosocial and environmental factors for the multidisciplinary health care team.

Public Health Social Workers conduct the following community-wide activities:

- Assess community service needs for program planning and development.
- Assure culturally competent services and resources.
- Develop and maintain partnerships with the community.
- Evaluate service effectiveness using outcome criteria and client satisfaction surveys.
- Facilitate applications and grant proposals to expand service resources in the community.
- Implement workshops for staff and community professionals.
- Maintain awareness of available community resources.
- Provide supervision, consultation, and training for other social workers, students, and other health care professionals.
- Promote policies that address health disparities.

Where Are Public Health Social Workers Found?

- Children's Developmental Services Agencies
- Community, Migrant, and Rural Health Centers
- Community-Based Organizations
- Local Public Health Agencies
- Health Clinics
- Home Health Agencies
- Hospice Agencies
- Hospitals
- Public Schools
- Regional and State Government Offices